NMHS VOLUNTEER SHOUTOUT

Erica

If you've made it to an adoption event this year you've definitely seen Erica welcoming people into the space and answering bunny questions. We are so happy she is on the NMHS team!

Q&A WITH ERICA

What made you fall in love with rabbits?

I fell in love with rabbits after adopting my first rabbit, Bunny. The summer after graduating college, I rescued Bunny from a family that was keeping her in a filthy cage. The family had described her as “cuddly,” when in fact Bunny was extremely aggressive and terrified of humans. Once we got her into a proper setup, it was amazing to watch her open up and begin to love me back. I had no idea rabbits had so much personality, could run around your house like a cat or dog, and used litter boxes. After meeting Bunny, I was hooked.

How did you get involved with NMHS?

I first reached out to Kirstin in 2021 about volunteering with NMHS. I got on the email list, but I didn't really start volunteering until Kirstin sent out an email looking for Bunny 101 instructors. I'm a teacher and love talking about rabbits, so it seemed like a perfect fit. Rraine trained me and we did a session together. Soon after, I began teaching Bunny 101 for potential foster families and adopters!

What is your favorite part about volunteering with NMHS?

My favorite part about volunteering has been building community with other rabbit people! It's great to hear about other people's experiences with their buns, their rabbits' personality, and learning from people who know more than I do.

Newly Bonded Pairs

We love seeing bunnies find their new best friend and its always a bonus when they compliment eachother so well. This year's theme so far seems to be light and dark. On this page we have three of the four pairs we played matchmaker for these last few months.

"I just adore them and the friendship they have found in each other. Every bun should have a bun of their own!!"
-Judy Kepler

Chapter Manager

KIRSTIN TYLER

Kirstin has been with NMHRS since 2016 and our Chapter Manager since 2018. It's rare to not find her with a rabbit in her hands, whether she's clipping nails or giving a bunny massage. If you don't see her at an event, just ask where the nearest bun is and you'll probably find her. kirstin@newmexicohrs.org
